

Executive Proclamation

Office Of The Governor

WHEREAS, Marshall V.M. Damgaard, a notoriously famous night driver and a man I like to think of as a "visionary-in-training," has gained the respect, admiration, and awe of his co-workers over these last three years in Pierre. An intelligent, articulate gentleman, Marshall has earned a reputation as a true professional with an undying dedication to doing quality work; and,

WHEREAS, A year and a half ago, world traveller and budding pianist, Vicki A. Votteler, returned to Pierre from USD in Vermillion, and state government quickly snapped her up, recognizing in her a penetrating intellect, a knowing sagacity, and a desire to work hard. She was a welcome addition to the Bureau of Finance and Management; and,

WHEREAS, The best part of this story is that these two bright, young people work in adjoining offices, and before long, they were going to lunch, taking in movies, and sharing their curiosity about the world; and,

WHEREAS, Vicki and Marshall are a natural as a couple. They enjoy each other's company, they share many common interests, and when it comes to planting flowers and shrubs, neither is afraid of getting dirty hands; and,

WHEREAS, We are all delighted that Marshall and Vicki have made the decision to share their lives as man and wife. While both are strong, independent individuals, one has to believe that as a team, they will be invincible; and,

WHEREAS, Vicki Votteler and Marshall Damgaard will speak the vows of marriage at the First Presbyterian Church of Britton, South Dakota, on Saturday, the Twelfth of November, Nineteen Hundred and Eighty-three:

NOW, THEREFORE, I, WILLIAM J. JANKLOW, Governor of the State of South Dakota, do hereby proclaim November 12, 1983, as

MARSHALL AND VICKI DAY

In South Dakota, with hopes that this illustrious team will find inspiration, strength, and solace in their new life together.
